Growing Our Faith, Living Our Faith, Sharing Our Faith —
Together

Follow our new sermon series—

Wisemen seek him?

People call him names?

Who is this Jesus that...

Religious leaders want him dead?

*He makes examples out
of children?*

He hangs out with sinners?

*People are willing to die
in order to follow him?*

Apples of Gold by Shannon Moore

A word fitly spoken

is like apples of gold in a setting of silver.—Proverbs 25:11

When I was about ten years old, my aunt/cousin (I'm from the South, and it's a long story) gave me a book for Christmas titled "Apples of Gold." It is a collection of poems, sayings, and proverbs collected by Jo Petty and published in 1951. She got the title from the scripture I referenced above and it is divided into chapters focusing on Love, Joy, Peace, Longsuffering, Gentleness, Goodness, Faith, Meekness, and Temperance.

I felt very grownup when I received this gift, because I had seen the gold-covered book on the coffee tables of many a good church person in my family's circle. I would peruse it at length and run my hands over the clean, smooth pages. I felt quite sophisticated by the knowledge I was gaining from the wise sayings contained in the book.

Time moved along, as it does, and I eventually lost or misplaced the book. The place it held in my life was filled with schoolwork and jobs and other activities. But I like to think that some of the things I learned from it stuck with me as I matured into adulthood.

Several years ago, when my parents were making a move, my mom found my old copy of Apples of Gold. It is worn and you can tell that it got wet at some point during its time of being lost. But I was so happy to have it back! I wouldn't trade any amount of money for it.

As we embark on a new year, I hope that among the resolutions for changing and improving, you'll cling to some valuable things from the past that helped make you who you are. There's a little check mark beside one entry in the book that young Shannon found important, and I'd like to share it with you:

You are writing a gospel, a chapter each day,
by deeds that you do, by words that you say.
Men read what you write, whether faithless or true,
Say, what is the gospel according to you?
