A Humble Prayer

There are many things most of us cannot understand – the emotion of Memorial Day for those who have loved a fallen hero is one of them. Most of us will never suffer the anguish of such a loss. We have not come home from battle when our buddies did not, nor have we answered the door to see the officers in full dress uniform, coming to us with news we prayed we would never hear. We do not know the terrible weight of that grief. We can intellectualize it, we can know it in our head, but we cannot know it fully in our hearts unless we have experienced it ourselves. I pray we never do.

As we go about our fun this weekend, enjoying the cook-outs, the ball games, the good times with our friends – we will occasionally pause to acknowledge the sacrifice our heroes have made to make all this possible. As we remember those who have fallen, we must also remember those they left behind, the ones who love them and mourn their loss. They too have sacrificed much for this nation. Though we may not personally know the depth of their loss, we can turn to God in prayer and ask that they be surrounded by God's love through God's people. We can lift them up to the healing power only God's love can provide.

There was a letter written by Abraham Lincoln to a Mrs. Bixby, a letter made famous in the movie "Saving Private Ryan." President Lincoln wrote to her after he learned she had lost all five of her sons in battles of the Civil War. I offer from it the following excerpt as a prayer for those who love the heroes we honor. Please join me in lifting it up for them.

"I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom." - Amen

Peace,
Dan
